Royal Baking Powder

No dessert is more delicious, wholesome and appetizing than a well-made dumpling, filled with the fruit of the season. By the use of the Royal Baking Powder the crust is always rendered light, flaky, tender and digestible. Dumplings made with it, baked or boiled, will be found to be the most delicious and healthful of any ever made. They may be eaten steaming hot with perfect impunity.

Recipe—One quart of flour, three-fourths cup of sugar, one-half cup of butter, one-half cup of milk, one-half cup of water, one-half cup of Royal Baking Powder, one-half cup of fruit (apple, pear, orange, etc.), one-half cup of raisins, one-half cup of currants, one-half cup of nuts, one-half cup of molasses, one-half cup of vinegar, one-half cup of salt.

In all receipts calling for cream of tartar and soda, substitute Royal Baking Powder. Less trouble, never fails, makes more appetizing and wholesome food and is more economical. Royal Baking Powder is specially made for use in the preparation of the finest and most delicate cookery.

The Lady Next Door.
Mrs. V. curried the lady next door because she always seemed so well and happy. "She enjoys life and I don't," said the discontented woman. "How I would like to change places with her!" At last she made the acquaintance of the object of her envy, and this is what the lady told her: "Happy? Of course I am, for I enjoy perfect health. My dear Mrs. V., your face tells me why you are not happy. You are suffering from functional derangements. I was a martyr to female weakness for years, but Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cured me, as it will you if you will try it. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or price ($1.00) returned.

Demorest's Family Magazine.
FOR DECEMBER, 1889.
We had never fully comprehended what was meant by a "Family" magazine, until we had given the fine Christmas number of Demorest's Family Magazine thorough examination. Of all others, this Magazine is certainly best entitled to use the word "Family," in its title, for every member is considered in its make-up. Its beautifully illustrated articles are equal to any in the high-class literary magazines. Especially noticeable in the December number is one about "Uncle Sam's Money," giving a description of how our coin is made, the illustrations starting with a view of the Mint, and going through every process until the coin is put into circulation. The "Day Nurseries" takes us among the worthy poor, and shows how they are to be done for their little ones. Every father and mother will appreciate this comprehensively and fully illustrated article, and stories are too numerous to mention, as can be appreciated when we say that the December number contains over two hundred illustrations and every member of the family is thought of. But though our space is limited, we must mention the beautiful oil picture, "Christmas Morning," which is indeed worthy of a frame. We would advise everybody to at least see this Family Magazine before making their choice for the year. The Christmas number is a real gem, and is sold for only $2.00 per year, and certainly the claim is a just one. Published by W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, 15 East 14th St., New York.

DR. KIRK:
Dear Doctor—I had a violent attack of gravel, after which the pain across small of my back, extending around my side, my stomach was disordered, had taste in my mouth, tongue coated; was compelled to stop work for a few days. Several years ago my brother, who lives with me, had a very strange sore to break out on his leg—about half way between the body and the knee—which afterwards developed into a cancer. It resulted from a bruise made by the rubbing of the strap-leather while riding. The cancer continued to grow until it was about five inches long, and three wide. The flesh sloughed off, black, rotten and foul, and it was almost impossible to procure a servant to wash and tend my brother. I was in the room where he lay being so foul that it would sicken any one who entered. Every physician in the State of any prominence was with me, and treated my brother with all the latest medical science. One doctor finally advised him to try Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), he did so, and need nothing else. He commenced to improve immediately, and after taking several bottles was completely cured and since 1881 not a symptom of the disease has manifested itself.

His Health Broke Down.
Last summer my appetite failed, my health became poor and I was in a very feeble condition. In fact, I was compelled to give up all business on account of my health. I tried physicians and their medicines, but without avail. At length I began taking S. S. S. and nothing else. After taking several bottles I was entirely cured and able to resume business. I increased nineteen pounds in weight in less than a month after I commenced taking S. S. S. S. J. M. MANN, Abbeville, N. C.

The Best Time to Marry.
Probably the best time for the average civilized woman to marry would be any age between 24 and 36. It is not said that no woman should marry earlier or later than this, but of those ages, but youth and health and vigor are ordinarily at their highest perfection between these two periods. Early marriages are seldom desirable for girls, and that for boys, because the brain is immature, the reason is feeble and the character is unformed. The consideration which would prompt a girl to marry at 17 would, in many cases, have little weight at 24. At 17 she is a child, at 24 a woman. Where a girl has intelligent parents the seven years between 17 and 24 are the period where mind and body are most amenable to wise discipline and best repay the thought and toil devoted to their development.—The Hospital

It may not be generally known, but it is a fact, nevertheless, that the section of one of Louisville's largest cemeteries is a woman—Mrs. Shelby—who, since the death of her husband in 1885, has had sole charge of St. John's (Catholic) Cemetery, located at Twelfth and St. Cecilia streets. There are now 15,000 dead resting in this graveyard, says the Louisville Courier-Journal, the first grave in which was dug by Mrs. Shelby's husband. The woman was born in Ireland and married there, but came to the United States in 1855. She attends to all the duties of the position, keeps her own books, records, etc., in a thorough and systematic manner, and has achieved a most creditable success and made hosts of friends. She has a family of five children, one of whom, a daughter, is married. Mrs. Shelby attends to her duties faithfully, though suffering from the effects of a lightning stroke received some time since. She is the only woman sexton in this city or State, as far as is known, and one of the few in the country.

An Important Ruling.

The trial at Greenville last week of W. H. Whitson, a wealthy farmer, for killing his tenant, Orlando L. Latham, a hotel keeper at the village of Dunmore, in 1885, was of much interest, not only from the sensational surroundings, but from the remarkable instructions given by Judge Grace to the jury.

Latham suspected his landlord of improper intimacy with his wife, who is a remarkably handsome woman and the mother of one little girl. On the night of October 5 Latham had his suspicions aroused by some indications of an assignation and taking his pistol, went round to the rear of his premises just as Whitson was retreating. He fired two shots, but missed, Whitson returning the fire with fatal effect. Latham gasped out, "O, Whit, you have killed me; but I did not intend to hurt you," and expired. On a trial Whitson tried to prove an alibi. J. B. Garnett, the Commonwealth's attorney, made a powerful argument, entangling Whitson in a web of circumstantial evidence with masterly skill.

Judge Grace instructed the jury in the usual manner as to the law of self-defense and then added this proviso:

"Provided, however, that if the jury believe from the evidence that at the time and on the occasion of the killing of Latham, the said Whitson was then and there wrongfully and unlawfully about the premises of the said Latham, for the purpose of collecting criminal intercourse with Ellen D. Latham, wife of the deceased, then in that event he could not avail himself of the right of self-defense, although the jury may believe that his life was in danger at the hands of said Latham; and the killing of said Latham by Whitson under the circumstances would be either murder or manslaughter, depending upon the fact whether the killing was done with malice aforethought or in sudden heat and passion, as described in the instructions of the court."

The important law is here set forth that the defendant who slays a person assaulting him to protect the sanctity of his home is on the same plane with the burglar who slays the man who is trying to protect his property. The jury failed to agree and the case was continued.

The Nisbet Affair.

There is still more or less mystery about the sudden departure of Dr. W. K. Nisbet last week. Mrs. Nisbet does not know where he is now, as nothing has been heard from him since his first letter. His father-in-law, Mr. O. S. Brown, cannot understand his conduct. He says he would have given the young people a home and set them up to housekeeping if they had only intimated that they wanted to leave his house. Public opinion is against Dr. Nisbet and the expression is general that he has acted very badly.

Mr. H. P. Rives will be a Democratic candidate for county surveyor.

DREAM OF NEWS.

Horseflesh Burned in Clarksville.

A Clarksville special to the Nashville American says: "James P. Gill's livery stable in this city caught fire Friday night about 9:30 o'clock and was burned to the ground. Fifteen head of horses were destroyed. Nearly all of the animals were fine roadsters, and among their number was the famous racer, Jugwood. Quite a number of vehicles were also burned. The stable was a brick building, 100 feet in length by fifty in width and two stories high. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is thought to have started in the loft. The loss will be between $30,000 and $40,000, with no insurance. Jugwood was valued at $5,000 and was owned by Maynard & Gill."
